Customer Reviews

This might be my favorite of the AHA cookbooks. The recipes were healthy and easy to follow, and I've enjoyed everything I've tried so far (Tuscan White Bean and Garlic Spread, although I didn't make the accompanying Pita Wedges; Quinoa and Asian Pear Salad, which I liked so much that I've made it several times since and even brought it to my book club; Portobello Ragout with Sun-Dried Tomato Polenta; Italian Spaghetti Squash, which was so filling that I didn't miss the pasta; Confetti Rice Pilaf; Banana-Nut Bread; and Chocolate and Red Wine Mini Cupcakes, another one I served to my book club). I still have a whole list of recipes I'm looking forward to trying, and I love that all the recipes include full nutritional analysis (I've gotten to the point that I refuse to buy cookbooks that don't provide nutritional information). I wish it had photos for every recipe, but it does include color photos of about 20 of them.

After giving this to my sister, whose husband is a heart patient, I bought one for me too! This book not only has great recipes, it has great ideas for better health. It is a great gift for any one and for yourself. It helps me to remember to eat better and to spread the word about women's health. Everyone should have one. Thanks for putting it together. Maybe there are more, but I only have this one and it is well worth buying and at a very good price.

I enjoy reading cookbooks to stimulate my creativity and to introduce me to new recipe ideas. While Go Red does offer many wonderful, creative recipes, many were too "rich" for my budget. Yet, I can take away lots of ideas for spices and sauces and new recipes like coffee-rubbed salmon with horseradish sauce and more.

This is by far, the best tasting recipes from a cookbook put out by the American Heart Association. The recipes I've tried taste good & I'm on my way to a healthier me.

good recipes, large selection, easy to understand with nice pictures. Good addition to your cookbook collection for anybody that cooks.
